Case #2020-C-081 Recommendation was made by Dr. Carson to close this case with an advisory letter to Physician regarding the ADA guidelines. Under the ADA, Physicians are required to ensure effective communication with patients through reasonable accommodations, and this may require the provision of an interpreter, unless the physician can demonstrate that this would result in significant difficulty or expense for the physician. The ADA is a federal law, enforced by the Department of Justice, prohibiting discrimination on the basis of disability in employment, state and local government, public accommodations, commercial facilities, transportation, and telecommunications. The definition of “public accommodations” includes doctor’s offices. Pursuant to this law, physicians are required to ensure, among other things, effective communication with people with hearing, vision or speech disabilities. Achieving effective communication with people who are hearing impaired can, in some situations, require the use of a sign language interpreter. Judicial decisions illustrate that the requirement of providing an interpreter depends heavily on the specific circumstances of each case. YES: Dr. Beaudette, Dr. Jenkusky, Dr. Spence, Dr. Anderson, Dr. Unverzagt and Ms. Johnson. RECUSED: Dr. Carson and Ms. Saavedra.
